

- 19. It Tag

- Equipment: none
- Space: gym, outside
- Everybody is 'it'. Everyone is trying to tag everyone else.
When tagged, players kneel down on one knee until another player touches them on the shoulder. (This is anyone except the one who tagged the person.) Then they stand up and are back in the game. Players who tag each other at the same time both kneel down.
- Variation of this is to do it in partners or small groups and only the partner or member of their small group can free them.

- 19A. Kings and Queens

- Equipment: enough pinnies for your class, 1-2 dodge balls
- Space: gym
- Choose 2 people who are throwers. They do not wear pinnies. These two throwers can run with the ball until they hit their first person. Then they cannot run when they have the ball.
- Rest of the class puts on pinnies. Students spread out around the gym.
- On the command 'go', the throwers run around and try to hit someone with the ball. Once hit, the hit person takes off his/her pinnie and returns it to the pinnie crate. Then they join the throwers.
- Throwers cannot move when they have the ball. They can run and pick up the ball but once the ball is picked up they have to throw it to another thrower or at a pinnie player without moving from that spot.
- Play continues until you are down to one boy (king) and one girl (queen). Then the game is over and a king and queen are 'crowned'.
- Strategy: As there are more and more throwers, working as a team is crucial. Throwers move around to advantageous spots where they can catch and then throw the ball at pinnie players. Passing the balls quickly from thrower to thrower produces more opportunities to hit the pinnie players.

- 20. Musical Hoops

- Equipment: cd player, upbeat music, one hoop per person if possible but not necessary
- Space: gym, outside
- Distribute a hoop to everyone and have them find personal space. Place hoop on the floor.
- During the playing of the music the students move around the gym (movement could be specified-gallop, skip, giant steps, airplane etc.). Have a student pick up 4-5 hoops and put them off to the side.
- When the music stops everyone finds a hoop. Hoops can only be shared if all hoops have someone in them. If a hoop is left empty everyone must do a task (i.e. 10 jumping jacks).
- To encourage the students to find a hoop quickly count backwards from 5 and anyone not in a hoop must do a task.
- Start the music again. Continue removing hoops until you get down to 3-4. Remind students that they must stand up, have at least a foot on the hoop and no pushing.

- 21. Noodle Tag

- Equipment: 4-8 pool noodle
- Space: gym, outside
- Give out the noodles and those people should meet in the center of the playing area. Everyone else moves to personal space.
- Start the game and anyone that is tagged by a noodle exchanges places with that person.
- Touches with the noodles should be below the shoulders. Do not allow the students to bang the noodles on the floor.

- 22. Noses (5)

- Equipment: one bean bag per person, cd player, lively music
- Space: gym, outside
- Students start at one bean bag. Have them move around the gym while the music is playing. You could specify how they are to move.
- When the music stops you call out a number and body part. E.i. 5 noses which tells them that they are to touch their nose to five different bean bags. After touching the last bean bag they would sit down beside it.
- Play music again allowing them to move around.
- Activity is over when ever you chose.
- Some other examples are: 7 elbows, 4 knees, 6 ears, 5 bums, 10 toes, etc.

- 23. Pip Squeak, Wilbur

- Equipment: one bean bag for every three players
- Space: gym, outside
- Have players get into groups of three. One player is Pip, another is Squeak and the third one is Wilbur.
- Now have everyone form one large circle with the bean bags in the center. The group stays side by side within the large circle.
- You will call one of the three names. The person who is called now runs into the center and grabs one beanbag. They run back out of the circle at the place they were sitting. Next he runs counterclockwise around the outside of the circle. While he is running his other two partners stand and form a bridge with their arms. Once the called person completes the run around the circle he runs under the bridge, drops the beanbag back in the center, runs back out through his bridge and then all three sit down.
- Call another name and repeat the process.

- 24. Poison Tag

- Equipment: 6 balls- 6 of one colour and 2 of another (could use pinnies or bean bags)
- Space: gym, outside
- Discuss what poison does and how an antidote works.
- 6 people with balls are the 'poison', 2 people with balls are the 'antidote'
- Have everyone spread out and begin the game.
- If a person is tagged by a 'poison' person he or she squats down.
- Job of the 'antidote' is to free the poisoned people. If 'antidote' tags a poisoned person he/she is then free to run again.
- Change the ball people as often as needed.

- 25. Popcorn

- Equipment: 4 noodles or pinnies or soft balls
- Space: gym, outside
- 4 students are it and each hold a noodle, 4 people are the free runners
- Rest of class group into threes and squat down or lie down on their stomachs
- Begin the game. Those who are 'it' try to noodle the free runners.
- The free runners can escape by joining a group of three. Once he or she joins a group the person on the opposite side must get up and become the free runner.
- If a free runner is tagged before joining a group then 'it' and 'free' just exchange roles.

- 26. Power Wall

- Equipment: pylons, set of pinnies
- Space: gym, outside
- Use pylons to designate the power line on opposite sides of the playing area. One pylon is placed in the corner of each power line.
- Divide the class into 2 teams. One team wears the pinnies. Each team stands on their power line facing each other. The game begins once a player from either team leaves his/her power line and approaches the other team's line.
- The player who left his/her power line after an opponent has left his/her power line is more 'powerful'.
- The player who is more powerful has the right to tag the opponent who is not. The opponent can run back to her/his line and become more 'powerful' than the player who was chasing him/her.
- The running back and forth continues for the entire game.
- Once tagged, a player must go to the opponent's prison. A prisoner lies down on his stomach with one foot touching the pylon. Every time a new prisoner arrives the preceding prisoners slide forward into the playing area.
- A prisoner can be rescued by having a teammate tag them. Only one prisoner can be rescued at a time and they get a 'free walk' back to continue play.
- The game ends when an entire team is in jail or time is up.

- 27. Rats and Camels

- Equipment: 2 sets of coloured 'tails', lots of pylons, bean bags (as many as you like)
- Space: gym, outside
- Use one half of the gym. Set up pylons to show the perimeter of the playing area leaving space at both ends.
- Divide the class into 2 teams. Each team (or one team) has a set of tails tucked into the back of their pants. Long shirts need to be tucked in.
- One team is the camels the other the rats. Camels eat rats.
- The camels are inside the playing area of pylons. They can not come out beyond the pylons. The rats are outside of the playing area at one end.
- At the opposite end, you spread out the bean bags.
- Objective of the game is for the rats to run through the camels and pick up a bean bag (grain) (one per trip) and run back through the camels to return the bean bags to a designated spot or box without losing their tail.
- If the rats get their tails pulled out by the camels they must return to their starting place and try again. Bean bags must be returned. Tails are returned to the rat as well.
- Once all the bean bags have been recovered or time is up switch the teams around.
- Remind the camels that they can not guard specific rats, nor can they grab people or clothing. Only allowed to touch the tails.

- 28. Roll the Dice!

- Equipment: any size of dice, number will depend on your class size.
- Space: gym, outside, classroom
- Determine as a class or have a pre-determined list of 6 activities (numbered 1 -6 to correspond to the die numbers)
 - Here are some ideas-wall sits, arm circles, ceiling stretches, table circles, thumb wars, push ups, sit ups, jumping jacks, swimmer, burpies, lunges, knee ups, any type of stretch, wall jumps, planks, grinder jogger, butterfly, field and throw.....
- Partners/group rolls the dice and the first roll determines the activity the students will do. The second roll determines the number of times the activity is to be accomplished.
- To add cardio work, have the students touch (1-4 walls, jog around the gym etc.) before they continue.
- Continue to do the activity for a set number of minutes or number of rolls.

- 29. Run Octopus Run

- Equipment: none
- Space: gym, outside
- Determine a rectangular playing space (volleyball court works well)
- Choose two taggers (two octopi) who must stay in the play space
- Students line up at one end and when the octopi call 'Run Octopus Run' everyone tries to safely cross to the other end. No one can go outside the playing space or they are automatically caught.
- If a student is tagged they become sea urchins who must sit cross legged on the spot they were tagged. They can not move off of this spot. These sea urchins can now help the octopi by reaching out to tag other players.
- Game is over once everyone is caught.

- 30. Ship Ahoy

- Equipment: none
- Space: classroom, gym, outside
- This can be played in the gym or classroom.
- You could research ship terms/structures. Draw a diagram of and identify the parts of a ship.
- Have the students imagine that they are sailors on a ship. When the Captain (teacher) barks out orders then the sailors respond with the appropriate gestures.
- Words and Gestures used:
 - ATTENTION- student stands at attention while saluting
 - SCRUB THE DECK- drop to the ground and pretend to scrub the floor
 - SEA SICK- lean over their desks and pretend to be sick overboard (encourage sound effects)
 - GANGPLANK- walk one foot in front of the other in a straight line
 - STARBOARD- touch the wall on the right side of the room
 - PORTSIDE- touch the wall on the left side of the room
 - STERN- touch the wall behind them
 - BOW- touch the wall in front of them
 - MAN OVER BOARD- hit the ground
 - Add others as you come up with them

- 31. Shuffleboard-Push up Relay

- Equipment: small ball, or bean bag, or deck ring
- Space: gym, outside, classroom
- Create teams- size would depend on numbers and space
- All but the first person and last person is toe to head.
- The first person yells 'Up' and everyone goes into a push up form. Then the first person rolls a ball or throws a bean bag down the 'alley' of people. The last person catches the ball/beanbag and then runs to the front of the row.
- Everyone moves back and the first person now joins the front of the alley of people.
- This procedure continues until the original first person is back at the start.

- 32. Snake Pit

- Equipment: CD player, upbeat music or just use a whistle or voice or instrument
- Space: gym, outside
- Create groups of three. Two are on sideline A and one on sideline B. (approximately 6 m apart, change the distance according to age and activity being done)
- When the music begins the first person on sideline A sprints to their group member on sideline B (hi-five for a tag) who then sprints back to sideline A.
- Continue sprinting until the music stops. Whoever is in between the two sidelines must do a pre-determined activity and then finish crossing.
- Remind the students that the side with 2 people must start the next set.
- Variations: change the mode of locomotion, use a new introduced concept i.e. Dribbling a ball

- 33. Tail Tag

- Equipment: can use old clean socks, grocery bags, old cut up ties, touch football 'tails'
- Space: gym, outside
- There are two objectives to this game. One is not to loose your tail and and the second one is to capture as many tails as you can.
- Have students place the tail in the back of their pants. If they are wearing a long shirt it should be tucked in first.
- Students find personal space. No one is ever out as you can capture tails even if yours is gone. Say 'Go'.
- After a certain time limit or when all tails are captured have the students sit down. With the show of hands find out who still has their tail and also how many tails did each student catch? One tail...two tails...three tails.... etc.

- 34. What time is it Mr. Fox?

- Equipment: none
- Space: gym, outside
- Before beginning talk about what foxes eat. Tell them that they really like chickens. That foxes like to sneak into chicken coops (house) and snatch a midnight snack. They go at night because the chickens are sleeping.
- Form a circle. One student is in the middle (Mr/Ms/Mrs Fox). The students (chickens) walk around the circle asking Mr. Fox what time it is. They just walk and ask until he yells 'Midnight'. At this word the chickens flee back to their chicken coop (any number of walls). If they are tagged then they become fox snack and get to help the fox next time.
- Gather everyone back to the circle and play again with all tagged chickens in the middle with the fox. Only the fox calls out the times.
